Heart Team Approach to Mitral and Tricuspid Valves

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This is the thirtieth in a series of symposia sponsored by the International Heart Institute of Montana. The two-day conference will address surgical techniques, imaging, minimally invasive approaches, and interventional therapies in mitral and tricuspid valve disease management. An interactive didactic lecture format will be utilized in combination with case studies, panel discussions and debates.

The course is designed to engage participants in discussions, debates and potential controversies combined with practical hands-on workshop sessions demonstrating mitral and tricuspid valve repair and imaging techniques.

This course is intended for cardiac surgeons, interventional cardiologists, echo-cardiologists, anesthesiologists, internists, nurses, physician assistants and all health care professionals involved in the evaluation, diagnosis and/or management of patients with mitral and tricuspid valve disease.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this activity, attendees should be able to:

- Discuss the issues and limitations in the evaluation and treatment of mitral and tricuspid valve disease.
- Evaluate the usefulness and limitations of advanced imaging techniques in assessing and treating mitral and tricuspid valve disease.
- Describe surgical repair techniques of mitral and tricuspid valve disease.
- Discuss percutaneous intervention therapy in the treatment of mitral and tricuspid valve disease.
- Discuss controversial issues, emerging techniques, and future directions.
- Demonstrate advanced mitral valve repair techniques utilizing an isolated porcine heart.
- Demonstrate the application of advanced imaging techniques.
